Ethical Resilience in Internal Auditing: A Research-Based Framework to Reduce Bias

05/21/2026, 12:00 pm-1:00 pm ET

Internal auditors are often faced with complex ethical dilemmas influenced by psychological biases and organizational culture. This session introduces a theory-based ethics framework and checklist developed by Dr. Elisabeth Dewaldt, aimed at reinforcing ethical resilience and improving audit quality. Participants will explore how cognitive biases such as moral licensing, confirmation bias, overconfidence, time pressure, and emotional framing impact professional judgment and ethical decision-making. Through practical tools and reflective case examples, attendees will learn strategies to bridge the gap between normative expectations and actual audit behavior, fostering a culture of ethical awareness and cognitive vigilance. This webinar is designed for internal auditors, chief audit executives, and professionals interested in strengthening ethical practices within their organizations.

Registration: $59, free for IIA members.

Agentic AI: How Internal Audit Should Be Preparing

06/10/2026, 12:00 pm-1:00 pm ET

This webinar will look at what agentic AI is and what to expect in the near-term from a “boots on the ground” standpoint. Actual and potential use cases will be covered along with how they may affect an organization’s risk profile. Even if agentic AI isn’t on your 2026 internal audit plan, it is not too early to begin thinking about the impact it will have in the future.

Registration: $59, free for IIA members.
